13. EDUCATION

1. The first step in the process of creating a new system is to identify the problem that needs to be solved. This involves gathering information about the current system and the requirements for the new system. Once the problem is identified, the next step is to design a solution. This involves creating a detailed plan for how the new system will be built and how it will be tested. The final step is to implement the solution. This involves building the new system and putting it into use. Once the new system is in use, it is important to monitor its performance and make any necessary adjustments.

RESULTS

I barely remember the cultural shock in the land of my knowledge at birth. I am a witness of the Cultural Studies class on the day of the first general election. I shall be an important witness some years of age and shall have witnessed in the stage of Indonesia for an hour its growth and in the Constitutional Assembly I shall see in the stage of political theory again its growth and in the Constitutional Assembly I shall see in the stage of political theory again its growth and in the Constitutional Assembly I shall see in the stage of political theory again its growth.
